C&J Energy Services is one of North America's largest providers of drilling, completion, production and other complementary oilfield services. The company was founded in 1997 in Corpus Christi, Texas and has a corporate office in Houston.

C&J offers a vertically integrated suite of well construction, well completions and well services and also the capability to manufacture much of the equipment used at its wellsite operations. Our dedicated Research & Technology Center advances new technologies, informed by real-world conditions in the field. We maximize the quality and efficiency of our service delivery via in-house equipment maintenance, upgrades and refurbishment.

Providing services to a wide range of major and independent oil and gas companies, C&J's facilities are strategically located across the U.S., Canada and the Middle East. C&J focuses on complex, technically demanding wells and has an established presence in the continent's most geologically challenging and active basins.

Excellence Delivered.
